Subject: [EXTERNAL SENDER] Bucksport Fish Factory

Hi Greg,
If the Bucksport Sanitary Water Treatment Facility cannot handle the amount of fish oil and nutrient load of fish processing, will that effluent end up being dumped into the Penobscot River? Will there be a way to monitor this? Is the Water Treatment Plant of Bucksport aware of this potential compromise in their sewage treatment from fish oil? Who pays for any necessary upgrades to the city facility? Will oil content of effluent be monitored and reported? I am very concerned about the health of the river, with this polluting Whole Ocean business being considered, especially since Belfast is downriver.
Sincerely,
Eileen Wolper Belfast Citizen
